Parenting and Teaching Children in the New Golden Age of Freedom

Part 1

Every child on your planet is being invited to awaken their Golden Age abilities to express the fullness of love in a way that is not based on the past, the future, the movies or the history books. Everyone is here to experience love as the pure and natural expression of the Essential Self that is shared with all of life. When children and young adults see the benefits of living in Oneness with all of life, they will discover the depth of their true purpose in being on Earth during this Great Shift in the Ages.

~ Saint Germain and Lady Portia

Very few people have been taught how to align with the love that naturally abides within their hearts. Children are primarily encouraged to develop their minds rather than their hearts and their feeling nature. As a result, the information they hold has become their sense of self-worth and superiority in relation to others. The battle for this superiority begins at a very young age and everything thereafter is measured against one's intelligence within the mind rather than the pure knowingness and the deep capacity to give and receive the love that is naturally encoded within the heart.

Children of every age are encouraged to fill their minds with a repertoire of mostly useless facts that will eventually determine their readiness for entering the world's higher learning institutions. Competitive living has created a human society that has left everyone searching for themselves and certainly for love in all the wrong places. Most people do not even know if love really exists.

Sexual exploration, even in young children, has become a way for literally relieving the serious imbalance and the stress that has developed between the mind and the heart. In most cases, love is now being completely left out of the sexual equation. Playing war games is how many boys are trying to work with the energies they are feeling in their bodies and seeing in the world around them. They are also trying to relieve the blatant imbalances they are witnessing in the media and in the movies.

Technologies are driving the nervous system into such high levels of stress that many children are on drugs of one sort or another. Children need to spend much more time out-of-doors without their iPods, iPads or cell phones. The pressure upon their young minds, hearts and bodies is appalling to say the least and drugs will never be the solution as they only numb the pressure. They can also increase the child's experience of feeling isolated and unworthy of receiving love.

How does a teacher or a parent rebalance the relationship between the mind and the heart so the child can see the real value of placing much more of their attention on loving themselves and caring about their families and their friends? How can children and adults be encouraged to see that competition is man-made and has nothing to do with a true desire for excellence based on inner values?

Whatever the problem, love is the solution for moving one into more harmony and less stress. Children are becoming so unaccustomed to intimacy that they are now pretending to be speaking to friends on their cell phones or other technological devices just to avoid actually making contact with someone who might be walking with them or sitting next to them!

Although most people in your world are in a desperate search for love, many have actually stopped believing that love really exists! Only you and I can reinstate that faith by living from the deep love that is truly encoded within every heart. Children and adults have to really want to experience themselves and each other as the love they truly are. They have to really desire to live fearlessly by opening their hearts to giving and receiving the love that is their essence.

This is vital if children are to rise out of the robotic levels of unconsciousness that are being created by their technologically-based lives and it is vital not only for the future of the present-day children, but also for generations to come. Children need to know that they hold the vital keys for opening the doors to a new way of living and loving in a world that is just now rising out of the ashes of its separation encoding. The ego part of the mind must now move into a conscious relationship with the pure love that is seeded within the heart.

Everyone who is here now ~ most importantly the children ~ are here because they have chosen to be an active part of seeding the foundations for a new Golden Age.

This is a call to all those who want to assist children in realizing their true full potential so they can align with their Presence or Master Self and be the wayshowers for the New Golden Age for generations to come. We the Masters have created the Golden Age Children Course specifically for parents, grandparents, teachers and all those who want to support children of all ages.
